Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:— "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

A ROUND OF TALK.

Wail of an Unlucky Man.

'Twas ever thus: since childhood's day
My fondest hope have gone to smash
My speculations never pay,
I have to toil for all my cash.

I never played a slot machine
And even got a poor cigar;
I loved, when I was seventeen,
A girl who was too old by far.

At thirty-five I loved again,
More dearly than I'd loved before;
The girl was too young for me then,
She was a child, or little more.

When I invest in stocks they slump,
No matter what conditions are;
The moment that I sell they jump,
And keep on 'till they've gone to par

If I should play a horse to win
He'd fall dead at the quarter-pole;
If there's a fly to tumble in
The soup I get it in my bowl.

When I arrive in heaven I'll bet
I'll learn with feelings of despair
That I could have been gay and yet
Have had a hearty welcome there.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

GOOD BID.—It developed at a meeting of the Burley Tobacco Growers of the A. S. of E. Winchester that a good bid had been made for two of the low grades of the 1906 crop of pooled tobacco. An offer of ten cents a pound for 5,000 hogsheads for those grades, which would make the average price about 15 cents. The offer was made by an independent house but it may have come from the trust. Any way the offer was turned down by the management of the pool for several reasons In the first place the tobacco in all of the county warehouses is not ready to be sold some of it not having been prized and arranged so that samples can be obtained. Then it is the policy of the society to keep the tobacco together until such a time as a sale can be made of the entire crop or at least the biggest part of it. With practically the entire crop of 1907 pledged to the pool and the 1906 crop so well in hand it looks as if something is "bound to drap" before many days. The growers are needing money. but are holding out with remarkable faith and patience which deserves success.

CONVENTION CALLED.—The Republicans of the Senatorial district composed of the counties of Washington, Marion and Taylor will hold a convention for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for State Senator. The district convention is to be held at Lebanon on Monday, September 9th and the county conventions to send delegates are to be held on the Wednesday preceding or September 4th. It is not known yet who will be selected as the candidate but it is probable that the selection will be made either from Marion or Taylor counties as there is said to be at least one available man from each of those counties. The State campaign organization is said to be particular urgent that there be Republican candidates from each Legislative district in the State and it is probable that a candidate for the Lower House will be named from this county.

Death Result of Accident.

Miss Martha Dadisman, of near Bloomfield, died last Friday as the result of injuries received in a runaway accident on August 11. Miss Dadisman was accompanied by Miss Katie Russell, of Colross, Spencer county, and they were taking a buggy ride and were near the residence of Mr. Eli Snider when the horse became frightened and began kicking. The buggy was upset and the young ladies were thrown out. Miss Russell was not seriously injured but Miss Dadisman was thrown out upon her head and shoulders and was rendered unconscious. She was taken to the residence of Mr. Snider and was given every attention, but never regained consciousness and died Friday. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. S. P Dadisman, a well known farmer of the Bloomfield community, and is survived by her father and mother, four sisters and two brothers. She was eighteen years of age and a member of the Big Spring Presbyterian church, and was beloved by all her friends and associates. The funeral services were held Saturday at the Big Spring church by Rev. Hodges, and the interment took place in the Big Spring cemetery.—Nelson Standard.

Rolling Thunder, a full blooded Sioux Indian, and a direct descendant of the famous old Indian warrior, Sitting Bull, will be in the city with the Daniel Boone Co., which plays here Thursday, Aug. 29. This gentleman is a graduate of Yale and also Harvard and has deplomas from each and graduated with the highest of honors. After leaving college he returned to the reservation prefering to be among his own people and near relatives. Rolling Thunder has an elegent flow of the English language and is to-day the only full-blooded Indian playing a part with any dramatic company. His interpating of the great chief, "Little Bear," is a rare piece of acting and when bedecked infull war regilia his appearance is most picturesque and striking. The blanket and head dress were given to him by his uncle and were worn by the famous Sitting Bull himself. Rolling thunder has been offered a handsome sum several times for the dress. but no offer has ever tempted him to part with so valuable a relic. It was with great difficulty that the management induced Rolling Thunder to accept an engagement, but be at last consented and has received many flattering press notices for his excellent work.

Negro and Pistol

Hubert Marple, Buck Butt and Howard Schooling, negro boys about 15 years of age. who were keeping company with a vicious looking pistol Sunday evening instead of being at church, tried to settle the matter as to who should "tote" it by physical supremacy. Before the scuffle had gotten fairly well started, the weapon was discharged, and Schooling was wounded in the leg, which is a very bad place to shoot a negro. City Judge Thomas was called upon to sit in the case Tuesday, and while he was convinced that there was no malice connected with the wounding, he nevertheless soaked it to "Buck" in whose hands the weapon was when it was discharged, to the tune of $50 and 15 days in jail for carrying concealed weapon The other two were dismissed. The pistol was one that had dis appeared recently from the shooting gallery. The trouble on Estes avenue.—Enterprise.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed by Haydon & Robertson Druggists. 50c.

Picnic a Success

The Holy Cross picnic last Saturday for the benefit of the Catholic church at that place was a decided success notwithstanding the inclement weather. Lyon, of Holy Cross; gold bracelet by Miss Prudie Ferrell of Holy Cross; silver set by August Eagle, Holy Cross; barrel of flour by George Clayton, Holy Cross and the fancy work by Miss Beatrice Ballard, of New Hope.

Family Reunion,

A reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newton, of Cecilville on last Sunday, all of the children and grandchildren being present besides a number of other relatives and friends. A most enjoyable day was spent by all. To be assembled at the dear old homestead once again where the kindest hospitality is ever shown is considered quite a source of pleasure. Those present were Mr and Mrs. Sam Simms Mr. and Mrs. Russell Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spaulding, Misses Regena Newton, Etta Hamilton, of Lebanon, and Messrs. Clem, Joe and Leslie Newton and a number of other friends and relations. The Graded School

Will Have Two New Teachers in the Faculty This Year.

The Springfield Graded School will open again Monday September 1. Only two changes have been made this year, Prof. Kessner, of Virginia, will have charge of the Eighth grade, Prof. Thompson having determined to complete his course at the University of Wisconsin. Miss Sallie Carrico, one of the strongest members of the faculty has been promoted to take charge of the Seventh Grade to fill the place of Prof. Hume who is now principal of the Mackville School. Miss Ida McClure will take Miss Carrico's place in the Fifth grade. A number of the more advanced pupils have been lost by graduation and their absence will be felt for awhile but this will merely afford better opportunity for others to take their places.

The terms for pupils outside the district remain the same; $2 for the primary grades, $3 for the intermediate, $4 for the High School and collegiate.

The outlook is very promising for another successful year and we feel sure that the patrons will have increased cause for their loyalty.

Sensational Suit.

A suit making rather sensational charges was filed in the circuit court in Harrodsburg yesterday on behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky by Miss Ora L. Adams, Superintendent of Public Schools of Mercer county. The defendants are D. C. Heath & Co., the school book publishers of Boston; B F. Graziana, of Covington, surety; Henry H Walker, late School Superintendent for this county and B. C. Allen, Circuit Clerk. The charge is made that by collusion and fraud a judgment obtained against Heath & Co. and Graziaan for $10,000 was sat at naught by Mr Walker. The petition recites that in suit instituted by Mr. Walker in 1905 a judgment was rendered inbehalf of the Commonwealth against Heath & Co. and Graziana for $10,000, interest and costs, growing out of a violation of their contract in eupplying school books: that despite the fact that no part of the judgment was paid. Mr. walker endorsed on the court record book a relerse and satisfaction of the judgment in full; that in the face of this release the Circuit Clerk has refused to issue an execution on the judgment and that representatives of the Commonwealth are powerless to collect the debt. Referring to Mr. Walker's entry on the record, "This judgment is satisfied in full" the petition says: "Plaintiffs soy that the statement of said marginial endorsement is false: they say that the party signing had no authority to make said endorsement; they aver that said judgment has not been satisfied. They state that said marginal endorsement is of no force or effect in law; that it was produced by the defendants, D. C Heath & Co., and B F. Frazians, to be made cy the defendant, Henry K. Walker, by fraud, and was done by collusion between said D. C Heath & Co. and B. F. Graziana and Henry H. Walker.—Danville Advocate.

Bright Prospect

The Enterprise has received a Colorado Springs newspaper which gives an account of the recent discovery of a rich gold mine in the "Wonder" district, Nevada, in which Mr. Charles J. Beaven, formerly of this county, and a brother of Miss Annie B. Beaver and Mrs. Lizzie Carrico, of this city, has a flattering interest Ore from the mine the paper says, "assays as high as $1,160 to the ton in gold and siluer and the chances are that the men interested in the property will have independent fortunes in the near future."

Four citizens of Colorado Springs and one Denver are the leading stokholders in the big prize. Mr. Beaven is the son of the late Leo Beaven, of St. Mary, and his friends in this county trust that his "flattering prospects" may grow brighter with each passing day.—Lebanon Enterprise.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are authorized to announce J. Rogers Dore, of Springfield, a candidate for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District, composed of Marion, Washington and Taylor counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party

Municipal politics are getting quite warm in Louisville. The Times says: "With the announcement of Owen Tyler for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, political clatter has been set a going, and from expressions from prominent politicians there is every indications that a lively scramble for nominations will begin this week. With a few exceptions, there will in all probability be several candidates for nearly every office on the ticket. All the present officers will seek nominations to succeed themselves in office with four possible exceptions. The belief has been growing in political circles that Mayor Bingham will decline to enter the Mayoralty race, although the Democratic Committee recently amended the rules providing that Independents be not required to take the oath to support the ticket. This amendment was made for the especial benefit of Mr. Bingham. Mr. Bingham declines to discuss the situation. There is also a rumor that Judge Lincoln will not be in the race for County Judge, but he declines to make a statement of his attitude.

Friends of the State Fair will be glad to learn that the matter of a place to hold the fair has been settled. After three weeks of negotiations with the owners of Douglas Park at Louisville, resulting in a failure to induce them to lease the grounds for the 1907 Kentucky State Fair, pending the clearing of the title to the property, and adjustment of other matters in connection with the purchase of the track and buildings as a permanent location, the Kentucky State Board of Agriculture has been given the use of Churchill Downs at Louisville for holding this year's exhibition during the week of September 16. The Kentucky State Fair will therefore be held on the dates mentioned, at historic Churchill Downs, where the Fair last year was held.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS

CHECKS IT HAS RECEIVED AT THE HANDS OF THE COMMONS.

The Long Parliament Put the Peers Out of Business Altogether For a Number of Years—Bollingbroke's Way With the Noble Lords.

There is an idea in the minds of very many persons that the British house of lords is supreme and can do pretty well what it pleases. This, however, is a mistake. On several notable occasions their noble lordships have been paralyzed and have got very much the worst of it in stormy arguments with the gentlemen of the house of commons.

The first occasion on which this happened was when the peers ventured to differ with the long parliament, which was at the time engaged in a life and death struggle with Charles I. The commons on this occasion wasted no valuable time in talking, but promptly abolished the lords altogether and turned them, archbishops, dukes, bellied earls and all the rest of the gorgeous coroneted crowd, into the street. The gilded chamber was vacant.

For half a dozen years or so the country got on without any house of lords.

All the checks the house of lords have received have not been of such a drastic nature as this, of course.

Various ministries, finding that the peers were unwilling to pass their proposed bills, have resorted to the threat to create enough new peers to swamp the house of lords. These new peers would, of course, have been pledged beforehand to vote for the ministry creating them.

In 1711 the prime minister of the day, the daring and unscrupulous Viscount Bolingbroke, was anxious to terminate the desolating and ruinous war with France, which had been raging on and off for twenty years.

To effect this purpose he had drawn up the treaty of Utrecht. It was necessary at last time that lords and commons should agree to a treaty before it would become valid. The commons assented to the treaty, but the lords declared that they would have none of it and that the war must go on, whereupon Bollingbroke coolly but firmly informed them that, rather than see himself defied by them, he would create a whole army of new peers to vote for the treaty.

The story goes that he had a regiment of the Life guards paraded under the windows of the house of lords and threatened to make every trooper into a noble lord if driven to it. He did make twelve new peers, and then the lords gave in.

The Liberal government of 1832, with Earl Grey as prime minister, used the same threat. They wished to pass the first reform bill. The lords hated this bill bitterly.

Until then they had been practically an oligarchy, with all the real power in their hands. The franchise had been so limited that only rich men, and generally only the nominee of some great nobleman, could get into parliament.

The reform bill altered that. It gave the smaller men a chance. The lords expressed their deliberate intention of wrecking the bill.

Earl Grey retorted by extorting from King William IV.—who didn't like reform bills, but dared not oppose the wish of the nation for fear of a revolution—permission to call up to the house of lords as many new peers as should be necessary to carry his bill.

The mere threat was enough for the lords. They had no wish to see their order made cheap and ridiculous, as would have been the case had peers become as plentiful as blackberries.

It used to be the custom in the British army for all officers' commissions to be purchased. That is, an officer, instead of getting into the army by means of a competitive examination and rising by merit, came straight from school, with at most knowing anything of the new duties he was about to assume, and had a commission bought for him. After that, instead of being promoted as a reward for his services, he used to buy each promotion.

If he had no money his chances of being promoted were about a thousand to one. The result was that officers who had grown gray in the service and fought in many battles remained subordinates all their lives, while the sons of wealthy families who had not seen a quarter of their service jumped over their heads by having their way purchased up for them to be colonels and generals.

Mr. Gladstone decided to do away with this purchase system. The lords did not wish it to be abolished. Consequently, when Mr. Gladstone introduced a bill to abolish purchase in the army the house of lords was not disposed to give it a kind reception.

They threw out the bill and imagined that they had won a glorious victory. But Mr. Gladstone found that Queen Victoria had the power to abolish purchase in the army by her own act if she pleased. He induced the queen to do this by means of a royal warrant.

And the house of lords could no more interfere with a royal warrant than they could knock the dome off St. Paul's by throwing their coronets at it.—Pearson's London Weekly.

Man and Woman.

"Man, composed of clay, is silent and ponderous," preached Jean Raulin in the fifteenth century, "but woman gives evidence of her osseous origin by the rattle she keeps up. Move a sack of earth and it makes no noise; touch a bag of bones and you are deafened with the clitter clatter."—London Chronicle.

The laws of conscience which we present are derived from nature, proceed from nature.—Montaigne.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Beat a boy out of a dime and the crime will never outlaw.

Comparison may not be a detraction, but it is certainly a half sister.

The truth with unselfish people is they are liable to brag about it.

There is only one way in this world to get your own way—insist upon it.

Almost any defense would be all right if you could make people believe it.

It is just as dangerous to tell some people a secret as it is to fool with a loaded gun.

When a man submits to a procession wedding the other men look at him the way boys look at a boy whose mother makes him wear long curls.

The man who has made a failure in any line of business never has a very good opinion of the man who started in the same line at the same time and made it a success.—Atchison Globe.

Too Deep.

The story is told of a lank, disconsolate looking farmer who one day during the progress of a political meeting in Cooper Institute stood on the steps with the air of one who has been surfeited with a feast of some sort.

"Do you know who's talking in there now?" demanded a stranger briskly, pausing for a moment beside the disconsolate farmer, "or are you just going in?"

"No, sir. I've just come out," said the farmer decidedly. "Mr. Evarts is talking in there."

"What about?" asked the stranger.

"Well, he didn't say," the farmer answered, passing a knotted hand across his forehead.

A Startling Shortage in Coal!

Fill your Coal House during the Summer or your family may suffer next winer. This is no an advertising scheme. I have no desire to decieve the people.

Read the following from the press dispatches of Tuesday, July 16.

COAL FAMINE IN MID-SUMMER

Butte, Montana, July 15.—Although the middle of summer, a serious coal famine is felt throughout the Northwestern States. The Northern Pacific in Montana, is obliged to burn Hocking Valley, Ohio, coal, notwithstanding strenuous efforts to secure additional local supplies. A Spokane, Montana, agent has orders for 200 cars, but has been able to secure only nineteen. It is difficult to get any coal from Canada, as the Canadian Government forbids export of Canadian coal until home demands are filled. Nearly all the Northwestern coal mines are running day and night but are all away behind in their orders.

A great shortage exists on the Pacific coast. The Government has been obliged to order 50,000 tons sent from Baltimore to the naval stations on the Pacific coast. Last winter when the great coal famine prevailed in the Northwest, barns, fences, even floors of houses, were burned for fuel. That famine was partly broken by large imports from Australia, Japan, and Canada. This year it is claimed that the entire product of Australian mines will be needed at home; also that little coal can be obtained from Canada because of the enormous increase of population in its Northwestern provinces, making it impossible the Alberta mines of Canada to supply the local demand.

Last winter the Canadian Pacific hauled coal 3 000 miles from Nova Scotia to Alberta to help supply the suffering settlers. What the people of the Northwest, to wit: Montana, Wyomiyg, the Dakotas, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Nevada add California, are going to do for coal the coming winter is a serious question. Long ago the authorities were warned that the coming winter would show a 40 per cent shortage of coal, but it looks as if the 40 per cent shortage had already arrived. All the railroads are largely increasing their train service and thus constantly consuming more coal. When the St. Paul is finished to Seattle they will require 6,000 tons per day for railroad use, not to mention the new towns and villages springing up along the new mileage.

For two years past few mines have been opened. For one year past no coal lands have been entered, the President having withdrawn 68,000,000 acres of coal land from public entry.

The great demand for house consumption has not yet commenced. The existing famine is caused by the great demand from industrial plants and for railroad use.

I believe we are prepared to say that we will have constantly on hand in our yards several grades of the best Coal mined. We have arranged with the mines to furnish the Coal and we will have it; and will sell at the lowest possible figure to war rant success of the business. If you want the coal give us your order and we will fill it promptly. You can't afford to put it off this time; you will lose money. Remember we are headquarters for the best that is.

ALMANACH DE GOTHA.

History of This Old and World Famous Institution.

The Almanach de Gotha is more than an almanac. It is an institution. Bravely arrayed in red and gold, it lies on the table of every diplomatist, is in constant request in the newspaper offices of all countries and makes a wider and more international appeal than any other annual of reference in the world. It is to Europe what Burke and Debrett and the other peerages are to the British isles, and it is also the finest ancestor and model of such topical encyclopedias as our Whittaker, our Hazell and our Statesman's Yearbook. A political and social history of the world for the last 150 years could be written from its back numbers if these were readily accessible to students. But they are not. The Almanach de Gotha began to appear in 1763, but the purchasers did not file it for reference. The earliest numbers in the British museum are those for 1771 and 1783, and a complete set can be consulted nowhere except in the editorial office in Friedrich's Allee in the little Thuringian capital. Probably not one in ten thousand of those who currently use the almanac has any knowledge of its interesting history.

It had of course its predecessors. The bibliographies of almanacs are ponderous tomes, and the middle of the eighteenth century was the golden age of this kind of literature. In Paris alone as many as seventy-three almanacs were published in the year 1760, including a royal almanac, an almanac for merchants, an almanac for Freemasons, an almanac of beasts, an almanac of badinage, etc. The city of Gotha itself had its own almanac from a still earlier date in the shape of an "improved Gotha genealogical and writing calendar," the origin of which is lost in the mist of antiquity, though a copy dated 1749 survives.—Francis Gribble in Scribner's.

A FEAT OF MEMORY.

Zangwill's Knowledge of the Famous Trials of History.

As an indication of the quality of Zangwill's mental processes I may relate an incident that occurred while we were producing "The Children of the Ghetto." Mr. Zangwill was seated in my office, and we were going over some of the details of the play. It was the day that Labori, intimately connected with the Dreyfus case in Paris, was assassinated. Knowing that Zangwill had intimate knowledge of the case, a New York newspaper sent a representative to see him. The reporter entered and after conveying the news said:

"Mr. Zangwill, we want from you a history of all the famous trials you can call to mind for our paper."

"Indeed!" said Mr. Zangwill. "I think I can prepare that for you. Come to see me in three or four days, and I will have it ready."

"We want it now," objected the newspaper man. "We want to print it in our paper tomorrow morning."

"But you surely don't expect me to quote you dates and facts out of my mind on the spur of the moment, do you?" asked Mr. Zangwill in astonishment, "Such a thing is out of reason."

"I'm sorry, but it's the only way we can make use of it," recited the newspaper man firmly. Mr. Zangwill thought a moment and then asked if he could have my stenographer for a short time. He was called in, and Zangwill dictated to him then and there a two column resume of all the famous trials of history, from Savonarola down, and quoted every important date and historical feature connected with each. From "Israel Zangwill," by George C. Tyler, in Bohemia.

The Creeping Blow.

"Mothers and nurses have devised and invented many ways of procuring obedience and correct behavior from their little charges," said a party politician. "The familiar 'bogy man' is still employed, but the times change and the people with them. The last time day, when the park was filled with mothers and nurses, I heard a new way of appealing to the love or fear of a child. A stylishly dressed young woman leading an irrepressible youngster, after making all sorts of threats and promises without effect, said, 'Child, child, you give me wrinkles under my eyes!'—New York Press.

To Cure a Bad Habit.

A way to cure a bad habit is thus explained by the Rev. Samuel McComb in the New York World: If you have a habit you wish to get out of your mind upon it after going to bed. Resolve to discard that habit at the moment you are lapsing from semiconsciousness into complete unconsciousness. Repeat the operation several nights, several weeks if necessary, and cure will follow, provided that the day after the first night the experiment is started you obey the impulse that will come on you to avoid the accustomed habit.

KNOCKED OUT BY A FISH.

Strange Experience of Second Officer of Good Ship Baker.

Second Officer Ritter of the German steamship Baker, which got into New York the other day from Kingston and other ports of the Island of Jamaica, had an unusual experience with a big flying fish while coming up the coast. One night he was shaving in his cabin preparatory to going on deck to relieve First Officer Herisberger. His washstand was near a porthole, which was wide open and some ten feet above the water line.

Ritter was looking out when he heard a swash and was struck by something with such force that he fell.

HE WAS STRUCK WITH SUCH FORCE THAT HE FELL.

A few minutes later First Officer Herisberger sent a seaman below to see why Ritter had not come on watch. The sailor found the second officer senseless on the cabin floor, and the ship's surgeon was hastily summoned to revive him. Near him lay a flying fish two feet long. Ritter had struck his head on the edge of a bunk in falling. He was not seriously hurt.

"I awoke at the tinkle of eight bells," he said when he came to, "and turned on the electric light. I was shaving when I happened to look out of the port and saw two red pieces of fire coming at me. There was a noise like a donkey engine gone mad, when it came in and dashed right at me, its mouth open and teeth gleaming. It came on with its nose stuck out and crashed against my forehead.

"Down I went as if a battering ram had struck me. But I leaped up in a moment and seized a crowbar. My first thought was that I'd been hit by some sailor crazy with the heat, but when I could see again there was this airship, or flying fish, sitting in my bunk, getting ready to come at me again. It rose up with a clatter of wings and swung on me with its stern whipper.

"Whacking out wildly with the crowbar, I went down again. I was plumb mad, however, and jumped up and gave it battle. The way that fish got around was terrifying. Mostly it rammed me, and the blows of the bar fell on it as if its scales were armor. It bumped me full in the middle of the forehead, and that was the last I remembered until I came to half an hour later.

The captain had the flying fish for breakfast.

McChord Nominated.

The Democratic county convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislature was held at the court house here on Monday afternoon and Mr. W. C. McChord was nominated. The convention was entirely "harmonious" and everything was carried out without a hitch. Mr. Elis H. Steel was elected Chairman and Thad Cheatham was chosen Secretary. A committee on resolutions reported the resolutions which we publish below without leaving the meeting. Mr. C. B. Pope nominated Hon. W. C. McChord as Washington county's candidate on the Democratic ticket for the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature. There was no other nomination and Mr. McChord was nominated by acclamation. Mr. McChord was notified of the honor and in a short speech accepted it. The following are the resolutions:

Resolved, That we approve the action of the Democratic County Executive Committee in calling this convention.

Resolved, That we heartily commend the present Democratic administration for excellent, practical and businesslike administration of State affairs. In J. C. W. Beckham, Kentucky has a safe and conservative Governor, one who has advanced the interests of the people of the Commonwealth and who at all times has stood ready to restore law and order and put down lawlessness; therefore be it.

Resolved, That we heartily indorse his candidacy for the United States Senate.

Resolved, That we congratulate the Democracy of Kentucky upon the selection of the most excellent State ticket headed by the Hon. S. W. Hager, and that we, the Democrats of Washington county, pledge to the ticket our hearty support. Mr. Hager as Auditor has served his State well; he has proved himself to be a clean, obedient and efficient servant, and we have every reason to believe that his administration of the State affairs as Governor will be heartily commendable, and that he will strive to advocate the interests of all the people.

Resolved, That we indorse the candidacy of Rogers Gore for State Senator and believe that he will make an active and efficient official, and commend him to the voters of the district.

"We never repent of eating too little" Was one of the ten rules of Thomas Jefferson, president of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at a high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself.

Keep Your Face to the Sunlight and Smile Through Your Tears.

I know an old man who has had a great deal of trouble and many losses and misfortunes, but he started out in life with a firm determination to extract just as much real enjoyment from it as he went along as possible—not in dissipation, but in wholesome recreation and fun. He has always tried to see the humorous side of things, the bright side and the duty of happiness.

The result is that, although this man has had more than his share of sorrow in his career, he has developed the inestimable faculty of making the best of every situation and of always facing the sun and turning his back to the shadows. This life habit of cheerfulness and optimism has brought out a sweetness of character and a poise and serenity of mind which are the envy of all who know him. Although he has lost his property and the most of his family and relatives, yet he radiates sunshine and helpfulness wherever he goes.

A man who can laugh outside when he is crying inside, who can smile when he feels badly, has a great accomplishment. We all love the one who believes the sun shines when he cannot see it.

A potted rose in a window will turn its face away from the darkness toward the light. Turn it as often as you will, it always turns away from the darkness and lifts its face upward toward the sun.

So we instinctively shrink from cold, melancholy, inky natures and turn our faces toward the bright, the cheerful and the sunshiny. There is more virtue in one sunbeam than in a whole atmosphere of cloud and gloom.

Your ability to carry your own sunshine with you, your own lubricant, your own light, so that, no matter how heavy the load or dark the way, you will be equal to the emergency, will measure your ability to continue and to achieve.—Success.

A FRIEND.

A harbor of refuge from the stormy waves of adversity.

A balancing pole to him who walks across the tight rope of life.

A watch which beats true for all time and never "runs down."

A permanent fortification when one's affairs are in a state of siege.

The first person who comes in when the whole world has gone out.

One who loves the truth and you and will tell the truth in spite of you.

The triple alliance of the three great powers—love, sympathy and help.

One who multiplies joys, divides griefs and whose honesty is inviolable.

A jewel whose luster the strong acids of poverty and misfortune cannot dim.

One who combines for you alike the pleasures and benefits of society and solitude.

A bank of credit on which we can draw supplies of confidence, counsel, sympathy, help and love.

One who considers my need before my deservings.—London Tit-Bits' Prize Competition.

How Clark Received the Gift.

Broken by ill health and bowed down by disappointment, Clark retired to private life in bitterness of soul and passed his remaining twenty-three years of crapulous existence in obscurity and poverty. Friends called attention to Clark's sad condition a few years before he died, and the legislature of Virginia grandiloquently acknowledged his great services and sent him a jeweled sword. The old hero's anger was aroused. "When Virginia needed a sword I gave her one," he exclaimed to the messenger. "She now sends me this toy. I want bread." And he thrust the blade of the costly gift into the ground and broke it at the hilt.—Lyman Tew Sprague, in "George Rogers Clark and His Conquest of the Middle West," in Outing Magazine.

The Joke Maker.

"The way I learned my trade," said the man who makes jokes for a living, "was to take advantage of every little thing that happened to come along. Whatever it might be, sad or gay, serious or merry, I squeezed a joke out of it. At first they were very poor, but after a great deal of labor I found my brand of humor improving. True, I often made my best friends my deadly enemies and turned every man's hand against me on more than one occasion, but at last I triumphed. I won't tell you what my salary is—you may not believe me. But you can take my word for it, young man, that there's money in making jokes."—New York Tribune.

Call Delayed.

Action as to a call for a convention in the Second Railroad district of Kentucky to nominate a Republican candidate for the office of Railroad Commissioner was postponed yesterday afternoon, because of the failure of a quorum at the meeting of the District Committee, which was to have been held at Republican headquarters at the Louisville Hotel. Such action being taken indicates the nomination of a candidate at a convention to be called within the next few days.

Fourteen members of the committee were present when the meeting was called to order yesterday morning, three being lacking to constitute a quorum. By a vote of 9 to 5 the members adjourned until 2 o'clock to await the arrival of other members who had possibly been delayed by late trains. However, no other members arrived, and after a short session in the afternoon the committee adjourned to meet on the call of the Chairman.

Among the members who were present were Chairman Thomas Ballard, Secretary George L. Ballard, Thomas Walker, of Lexington; Wilbur Phelps, of Russell county; J. T. McCoy, Pulaski county; H. M. Burke, Marion county; George Hutchinson, Anderson county, and J. M. H. Geas, Boyle county.—Herald.

Injuries Fatal.

Mr. Clarence A. Vanarsdall who got his hand severely crushed between the roolers at the feed mill of Mr. Riker Vanarsdall about two weeks ago, died Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of his uncle, Mr. Charlie Vanarsdall, in this city from the effects of blood poisoning. For several days before he died his condition was alarming and his death was expected. It was intended to amputate his hand, but his nervous condition was such that the physicians advised against it.

It will be remembered that after Mr. Vanarsdall was hurt the secret marriage of himself and Miss Bertha Trower, which took place last February, was made public. At the time the young wife was at Danville, Ill., where she had a position as governess in a wealthy family, and on being notified of the injury to her husband she came at once to Harrodsburg and was with him when he died. Besides his young widow he is survived by six brothers and one sister. Harrodsburg Democrat.

Sandy Hook Farce.

Lexington, Ky.—The trial of Elbert Borgis, John Abner and Bill Britton, charged with the assassination of Dr. B. D. Cox at Jackson, Breathitt county, on April 13, 1902, will be called at Sandy Hook, Elliott county, on Monday by Special Judge W. B. Moody.

Some of the witnesses left Breathitt, Perry and other mountain counties today for Sandy Hook, and others will go on Sunday. Many witnesses live in other States, and summonses will be issued at once for them. It is not believed that the trial will be entered into at this time, although Judge Moody is anxious to get the trial over. Attorney A. F. Byrd will possibly return tonight from the Jamestown Exposition, and will likely go to Elliott county on Monday to assist the prosecution. Judge James Hargis, of Breathitt county, was acquitted a month ago of the charge of killing Cox.

PLAY TAG IN SKY.

SEVENTEENTH STORY STUNT.

Big and Breathless Broadway Crowd Watches Antics of Reckless Urchins. Finest Free Exhibition in Years Stopped by St. Paul's Superintendent.

Ever since that big commercial trust, the Dutch West India company, some 300 years ago opened an office for the transaction of the fur business with the Manhattan Indians down near the site of the Standard Oil building the New York office boy has been notorious for audacity, freedom from restraint and carelessness of the safety of himself and those who come in contact with him. It is doubtful, however, if any of them ever eclipsed the aerial agility displayed recently by some of the boys of the St. Paul building, at Broadway and Ann street.

A MOST AMAZING GAME OF TAG.

Every one stories the tall, irregular building is belted by a narrow cornice. It was about the hour for most people in offices to grow sleepy and tired when a boy slipped out of a seventeenth story window to the cornice and, with arms stretched out, side stepped rapidly along the narrow ledge to the next window. Before he had reached it another boy had followed him to the cornice and sidled rapidly along in an evident endeavor to overtake him. Then for ten minutes there was the most amazing and exciting game of tag that was ever seen on Broadway.

Seventeen stories below the crowd stood gaping with wonder, watching the agile players. Significantly passersby turned out and gave that section of the building where the play was going on a wide berth, leaving the sidewalks almost unoccupied lest they be struck by a falling body.

In and out of the windows the boys scurried, at one point turning a sharp corner which took them apparently into another room. As the chase grew hotter the pace was increased.

"Well, I never saw an office boy move so fast as that on solid ground," ejaculated one onlooker.

After this performance had gone on for what seemed to the watchers a long time, but in reality was only a few minutes, and when there seemed to be danger of a block on Broadway some one telephoned to the superintendent of the building, notifying him that hundreds of lives were being put in jeopardy by the game and that for the well being of the public, if not of the boys, it was time to call a halt. The superintendent acted at once, and the finest free exhibition since Bryan rode up Broadway came to an end.

Pushed a Bear.

To walk right up to a monster bear and try to shove it out of the way and then escape without so much as a scratch is an experience of a lifetime Harry L. Engelbright found it so a few days ago in Diamond canyon, above Washington, Nev. The young man, son of Congressman Engelbright, has just returned from the upper country where he has been doing some surveying and relates his thrilling experience. It was evening on dusk at the close of the day's work. In the heavily timbered trail he saw protruding what he supposed to be the hind quarters of some stray burro. He walked up and gave the brute a shove. It came to its haunches with a snort that made his hair rise and caused him to beat a hasty retreat. The big brute looked around and then shuffled off into the woods.

Pawns Gold Teeth and Wooden Leg.

The desperation which sometimes seizes the poverty stricken seldom has had a more thrilling exemplification than in the case of Charles Blank who, in an effort to secure money to send to his sick wife whom he claims is in Chicago, had two gold teeth and a wooden leg upon the counter of Jacob Woolf, a pawnbroker, and begged for a loan. Woolf says he knew Blank years ago when he was prosperous and had confidence in his word. Accordingly he handed Blank $5 and the latter, minus a part of his masticating and locomotion organs, hobbled to a bank and bought a draft to send to his afflicted one.

THE QUESTION OF LIFE.

Man's Progress and the Books of the Eighteenth Century.

In what mankind called "progress" the world was led by illusion, advanced by lies. Everybody hated work, which was the only health. Even the preacher spoke dolefully of "the curse of Adam." Everybody wanted to be rich, which meant unhappiness; everybody wanted to be idle, which meant death. Change was regarded as progress, and to find one different from oneself was to find one worse than oneself. And with all these I sympathized, knowing them to be wrong.

I had listened to moralists and before all was done discerned that a question of morals was a question of latitudes, and vice related to the equator. Cruelty was a creature of the thermometer; the tropics tortured what the arctics nursed. Happiness was born of contrast when it wasn't born of temperament, and Third avenue laughed oftener than Fifth. One man committed suicide, another gave a feast. Each was worth $20,000. The suicide had been a millionaire, the feast giver a pauper. I considered merchants and gamblers. There was but one difference—when the merchant's resources ended his credit ended; when the gambler's resources ended his credit began. When the gambler was down his fellow gamblers helped him; when the merchant was down his fellow merchants fell upon him and tore him like wolves.

Progress? A wise man proved it by pointing to a railroad and asking me to remember stagecoaches. I asked why it was better to travel 900 miles in a day than to travel ninety. He said one could reach Chicago in a day and night. I replied that one couldn't reach Calcutta in a day and night. He said that medicine and surgery had advanced; that we now saved lives we used to lose. I asked why it was important to save lives that must one day die; also I pointed out that we saved weaklings to wed weaklings and produce weaklings, which was progressing backward. He grew angry and asked if I favored death. I grew angry and asked if he favored birth; also I wanted to hear whether or no he believed in killing weeds.

Progress! I know nothing of medicine and railways and stagecoaches and saving lives, but I do know about books. And I see by my bookcases that the nineteenth century did not write so well nor in things beautiful think so well as did the eighteenth, with the promise all about me that the present century will write worse and think more heavily than either. We have better guns, clocks, plows, sewing machines, but they wrote better English and thought nobler thoughts.—Alfred Henry Lewis in Cosmopolitan.

Omen of the Wedding Ring.

At the close of a recent divorce case a woman spectator remarked:

"I knew they wouldn't pull together very long. The crease made by her wedding ring proved that. When she had been married six months I saw her take her ring off one day. The mark it had left was so faint you could hardly see it. You can always gauge the length of a marriage by the impression made by the wedding ring. In some cases the ring, even though entirely too large, sinks away into the finger. Such a mark as that indicates a marriage as lasting as eternity. Other women may wear a ring as tight as the skin, yet it will leave scarcely a streak on the flesh. In that case look out for an early termination of the contract."

The other women present said nothing, but all improved the first opportunity to slip their rings around and inspect the telltale mark. The faces of some wore an expression of satisfaction, others of disappointment, but nobody knew the reason therefor.—New York Press.

A Considerate Actress.

A doctor saw Julia Marlowe as Juliet one night in Pittsburg and was tremendously impressed. Only in the powerful death scene there was a technical error. "Miss Marlowe," the doctor said at a reception the next day, "I admired your Juliet profoundly. The impersonation was a work of art. But pardon me, don't you know that a corpse doesn't stiffen for at least six hours after death?" Miss Marlowe answered in the drawl that she reserves for such speeches, "Now, doctor, don't you think I'm going to keep my audiences waiting six hours for me to stiffen?"

Schoolboy's Essay on Henry VIII.

Henry VIII. was a frequent widower, conceited, cunning, cruel and corpulent. He burned the pope's bull in effigy, beheaded his best friends, made himself defender of the faith by a Lat. in law and had an inordinate ambition and no ulcer in his leg. Henry sternly denied the validity of the proud pope of Roam and at last, worn out by an internal discord, died more in sorrow than in anger.—Harper's Weekly.

BIG BALLOON RACES

European Sport For Kentucky State Fair.

RAILROAD RATES CUT IN TWO

Tickets Go On Sale Sept. 14 and Are Good Returning Until Sept. 23.

Along with the other big amusement enterprises secured for the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville the week of Sept. 16th, the State Board of Agriculture has contracted with aeronauts to put on balloon races. This is a form of sport that has been responsible for the expenditure of thousands of dollars in Europe among the aristocracy during the past few years. It is perhaps the most exciting of all kinds of races.

The balloons to be used at the Kentucky State Fair are as nearly identical as it is possible to manufacture two articles of the same kind. They are to be inflated with the same pressure of gas. Expert operators are to be in charge. Ballasts of sand weighing the same will be given to each, and the result of the races will depend upon the manipulation of this ballast almost entirely.

The balloons will leave the ground at the same time, ascend to a height that will throw them into a current of air, carrying them naturally in the same direction. It is in the mind's eye of the spectator, he could divide the balloon race into heats, the moment of reaching this air current would be called the first heat. It is here that the excitement begins. From one balloon a bag of sand is thrown out, from the other one or two. In this way one operator gets the advantage, and if he is skillful he wins the heat.

Viewed from any standpoint, the balloon races at the Kentucky State Fair must prove as great an attraction as anything that is billed for the big week which begins Sept. 16th.

TROTS, PACES, RUNNING RACES

Kentucky State Fair Will Have a Great Speed Program.

No matter in what direction the taste of the visitor may run so far as speed contests are concerned, the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville Sept. 16 to 21 will gratify his desire. There are to be trotting races, pacing races, running races, automobile races and balloon races. A trotting or pacing race has been arranged for each day as follows:

Sept. 16th, 2:20 pacing; Sept. 17th, 2:25 trotting; Sept. 18th, 2:15 pacing; Sept. 19th, 2:18 trotting; Sept. 20th, free-for-all pacing; Sept. 21st, 2:16 trotting.

A six hundred-dollar purse is offered on each of these races. One of these will be known as the Louisville Retail Merchants' Association purse, and another as the Louisville Commercial Club purse, appropriations having been made by both of these organizations.

Running races each day for purses of $200 will be conducted, while on Wednesday, Louisville Day, automobile races, limited to Kentucky owned automobiles, will be run. The last mentioned race will follow a grand automobile parade entirely around the track. The dates of the balloon races have not yet been announced.

AN IGORROTE VILLAGE

One of the Big Attractions For Kentucky State Fair Week.

In line with its policy to put on only the greatest attractions that can be secured, the Kentucky State Fair management has closed a contract to have an Igorrote Village at the coming exhibition during the week of Sept. 16th, in Louisville, which will undoubtedly prove a great attraction. This village is now located within the White City at Chicago this year. Its inhabitants are a horde of barbarians who have come direct from the Philippines.

This exhibition is better in fact than the one at the World's Fair in the Philippine Reservation. All of these barbarians were returned to the Philippines by order of the United States government and new contracts were signed with Uncle Sam to bring over a new lot of genuine dog-eating Bontoc Igorrotes. The primitive life of these barbarians will be lived every day at the State Fair, just as it is in Bontoc. Their huts are of native material, coming from the Island of Luzon. The tribe includes some of the famous head hunters of the Philippines. There are many rites and ceremonies peculiar to these people and there are constant dances and feasts. The native industries are shown in the village, which will be open to inspection all day and half the night during State Fair week at Louisville.

TRAINED WILD ANIMALS.

Mundy's Trained Wild Animal Arena, the big zoological congress that has been holding forth in the famous White City at Chicago this year, has been engaged for the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville, Sept. 16th to 21st. This is admitted to be one of the most complete trained wild animal organizations in America. There is no better collection, nor are there finer specimens of the Asiatic and African carnivora than are to be seen in this big trained wild animal show. Each and every one of them is thoroughly educated and every one is a competent actor.

Anglicized French.

For two centuries we have been crying "Encore!" at the end of a song, where a Frenchman never says it, his own equivalent for it strangely being the Latin "Bis!" And "on the tapis" appears in English far more often than in French, and misunderstood at that, since it does not mean "on the carpet," but on the tablecloth of the council table for discussion.—London Chronicle.

Both Satisfied.

"I should like to break it off, but I can't bear to give up this diamond ring."

"Then why don't you tell him so? He told me he'd be willing to lose the ring if he could get out of the engagement."—Sketchy Bits.

He Might Succeed.

Professional Humorist—Wit should never seem forced. Now, I never try to be funny. His Vis-a-vis—Oh, but you should, Mr. Woodshine! One never knows what one can do till one tries.—Puck.

ADVERTISING AN ART.

But It Should Be Made an Art That Calls Beauty to Its Service.

Advertising has indeed become an art. It remains for it to become, if not a fine art, at least an art that calls beauty to its service. When it does much of the energy that is now misdirected, much of the money that is now prodigally wasted in destroying the world's beauty, will be saved.

The right procedure is indicated by the most conspicuous mediums for public advertising. The press, in its daily, weekly or monthly forms, offers altogether the best means for calling public attention to all sorts of things. The best of public journals—those which are recognized as the most desirable mediums for advertising and which consequently obtain the highest prices for their services—make it a rule to classify and restrict in a judicious manner the advertisements that they print. They confine them to certain parts of the publication, they restrict their display to certain decorous styles of type, recognizing that a helter skelter distribution through all columns or to display them in incoherent fashion according to the whims of the advertisers would largely destroy the very objects held in view. The readers of these journals would resent the intrusion of advertising matter into the space set apart for news, editorials, etc., and the influence that gives the advertising its value would decline.

In the same way the forms of advertising that now give exceeding offense to the community ought to be restricted and kept within proper limits. If this were effected the privilege would change from the public nuisance that it now is to a function that, in a considerable degree, might couple genuine service to the public with a presentation of its material in an interesting and even esthetically attractive fashion.—Sylvester Baxter in Century.

WEARING A WIG.

A Help to the Health of Those With Bald Heads.

An eminent American who while in Paris consulted a famous physician of that city to ascertain if there was any remedy for baldness was told by the doctor that the best thing to do was to wear a toupee or wig. The American said that he always regarded the wearing of a wig as an evidence of a man's vanity, but he was quite surprised when the French physician replied: "You are quite mistaken. The wearing of a wig is regarded by those who have carefully studied the subject of health as a beneficent safeguard. A man who from any cause has lost a good part of his hair usually loses it some time after middle life, when his vitality begins to ebb. You must bear in mind that the scalp is filled with myriads of blood vessels, and when it is exposed without the covering that nature intended to give it a man is apt to suffer from sudden and acute attacks of cold, catarrh and influenza. I have often prescribed the wearing of a toupee or wig to a patient who has come to me complaining of his susceptibility to colds, and in nine cases out of ten after the wig has been worn the susceptibility has ceased at once. Many cases of deafness I have traced to colds constantly recurring in those who have lost their hair and who have provided no substitute for nature's covering. Some cases of chronic sore throat are traceable to the same cause. In some instances patients suffering from tuberculosis of the lungs in the early stages have found decided protection from colds by wearing a wig. Those who need to wear a wig and will not do so must not be regarded as victims of vanity rather than those who, accepting the inevitable, make the best of their misfortune, for I regard baldness as nothing less than a misfortune to any man or woman."—Leslie's Weekly.

Children and Dogs.

The child who is taught to love animals and to have a dog as a companion is introduced to a friend of the truest and best kind—the kind of friendship that lasts. Have you never had a dog? Then you don't know what pleasure can be had in his companionship in rambles, in his quiet presence in your room, his unobtrusiveness when human company would bore you; a "chum" who always adapts himself to your mood when man or woman would jar upon you. By all means cultivate in children a love of animals, especially of "man's best friend," the dog.—New York Herald.

A Famous Tenor.

Apart from its wide range, the natural beauty and sweetness of the voice of Sims Reeves held his audiences spellbound and fully entitled him to be termed the finest English tenor of his day. He especially excelled in oratorio parts, while in opera his success was scarcely less pronounced. Perhaps it was as a singer of English ballads that Sims Reeves appealed to the majority, and it will probably be many a long day before we hear a more exquisite rendering of "Sally In Our Alley" than that of which this great tenor was capable.—London [illegible].

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. CURED BY HER FAITH.

Crippled Girl Made Well by Visit to Shrine of St. Anne.

REAL MIRACLE, SHE SAYS.

Miss Ellen Keefe of Glens Falls, N. Y., Tells How, After Eight Months of Helplessness, She Threw Away Her Braces and Walked.

Miss Ellen Keefe of Glens Falls, N. Y., is a very happy young woman. She claims to have miraculously recovered the use of her limbs and, after being crippled for eight months, is able to walk again through her devotions at the shrine of St. Anne in the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, 159 East Seventy-sixth street, New York city.

Miss Keefe is the daughter of J. B. Keefe, a harness manufacturer, and was stopping with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Roarke, at the Lansing apartments, 113 East Seventy-sixth street. There a reporter found her.

"Eight months ago," she said, "I had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. Complications followed, and I became unable to walk. Physicians in Glens Falls were called to attend me, but after four months advised me to come to this city and consult specialists.

"This was done. Two specialists were visited, and each said that it would be impossible to cure me without an operation, and this would leave me deformed.

"I would not consent to undergo such an ordeal. My relatives then secured a physician of excellent reputation from Washington heights, and under his careful treatment I was enabled within a short time to stand. This was very encouraging, and after another month, with the assistance of crutches, foot braces and ankle supports, I was able to move my feet along the floor an inch or two to each step.

"I made no further progress until I began attending the annual novena of St. Anne at the Roman Catholic church of St. Jean Baptiste, a block from my aunt's home. When I attended the novena first I had to be half carried to the door by my cousin, Miss Alice Roarke. She it was who carried me before the shrine of St. Anne, where the relic was exposed. I prayed earnestly to be restored to good health. I had absolute faith my prayers would be heard.

"The visits were repeated each day without any change in my condition until Saturday afternoon. I had been to church in the morning, assisted, as usual, by my cousin, but in the afternoon when I arose from the divan in the parlor I noticed, to my amazement, that I felt stronger and was able to increase the length of each step.

"My cries brought my relatives to me, and they were overjoyed to notice the change that had taken place. 'It's the novena and the supernatural assistance of St. Anne,' I told them. 'Take off those braces. I believe I can walk without them,' I said.

"They did as I requested, and, much to their amazement, I walked unaided the full length of the apartment. I almost fainted with joy when I realized what I had done and apprehended that I once more was able to walk.

"I have been walking every day since," continued Miss Keefe, her eyes beaming with happiness, "without any assistance, and I hope, with the help of God and St. Anne, to improve every day until I am entirely well. I am again making daily visits to the shrine."

All Miss Keefe's relatives and several of their neighbors spoke of her miraculous improvement and believe, as she does, that her faith and prayers effected the cure.

Swallowed Six Inch Snake.

Thomas Jefferies, member of the Rough Rider club of Cincinnati, who had been camping on the Ohio river near Lawrenceburg, Ind., got up in the night and took a drink from a spring near by. This was at 1 o'clock, and in a few minutes after he retired he awoke his companions with his groans. A doctor was summoned, but before the physicians arrived, the man nearly died. Jefferies was given an emetic, and he threw up a green snake six inches long. Jefferies is now entirely recovered.

Sentenced to Bed.

A man named Transier of Bennington, Kan., was fined and ordered by the magistrate to remain in bed for seven days for intoxication. A police man escorted him to his home and helped him retire.

A Riddle.

I go abroad by day;
I go abroad by night;
I'm busy when it's dark,
And
I'm busy when it's light.
All people know and love me,
Yet none hath seen my face,
Though I go beside them daily
And
Nightly every place.

A Pet Tiger.

Out of a river bed where it had tumbled when its dam was put to flight some hunters in India fished a tiger cub. In two days it was as tame as a kitten and grew up the playmate of the camp terriers. It was very fond of them and the terriers worshiped the tigress. To allay the fears of a woman visitor the tigress was one night chained up. Next morning the animal was found with a man under her. She had not hurt him. He was a thief and, not knowing of her existence, had come within the area which her length of chain enabled her to command. She sprang upon him, lay on him and kept him prisoner until guards came to release him.
